Profile

The Leipzig homeCare show offers a unique national sector meeting place, bringing together all care providers who work in networked patient care in Germany, in particular those involved in home care provision and non-hospital-based intensive care and their network partners.

The specialist congress offers "state of the art", interdisciplinary further professional development for non-residential and community-based care as well as residential care staff and home care professionals and so covers the complete spectrum of topics in all major therapeutic areas. (Wound treatment, nutritional therapy, incontinence / stoma care, palliative care, respiratory care).

The management congress will focus on issues and topics in networked, intersectoral patient care, strategies and networks, as well as technical possibilities in the home environment and will include discussion of health care policy issues for decision makers and opinion formers.

The quality of the congress content will be in the hands of the homeCare Leipzig Congress Advisory Committee, which includes representatives from all leading professional medical associations in Germany.

Exhibitors at the accompanying exhibition in the Leipzig Congress Center (CCL) will include product suppliers, service providers and professional associations.
